

Ana Rita Pedro, PhD in Public Health, is a Researcher at the National School of Public Health of Nova University of Lisbon and in the Comprehensive Health Research Center (CHRC). She is the author and co-author of several articles in specialized journals and works in the area of Medical Sciences and Health, with emphasis on Health Sciences and Public Health. Her research areas are Health Literacy, Social Health Perceptions, Health Policies, Health Information Systems, Shared Decision on Health Care and Adherence to Therapy. In her curriculum the most frequent terms in the contextualization of scientific production are: Health Literacy; Access to health care; Health policy; Shared Decision Making; Health Information Systems; Surveys; Validation studies; Public Health; Medication Adherence.