Hospital Administration Specialization Course

One of the most recognized post-graduation courses at ENSP-NOVA.

Since 1970, it aims to provide professionals with the necessary scientific knowledge and technical skills, so that they can take on management roles in health organizations and help them achieve their potential.

Graduates from this course are known to fulfill positions that range from board and management duties at local, regional or even national institutions or even politics and policy making, thus creating an unique networking environment.

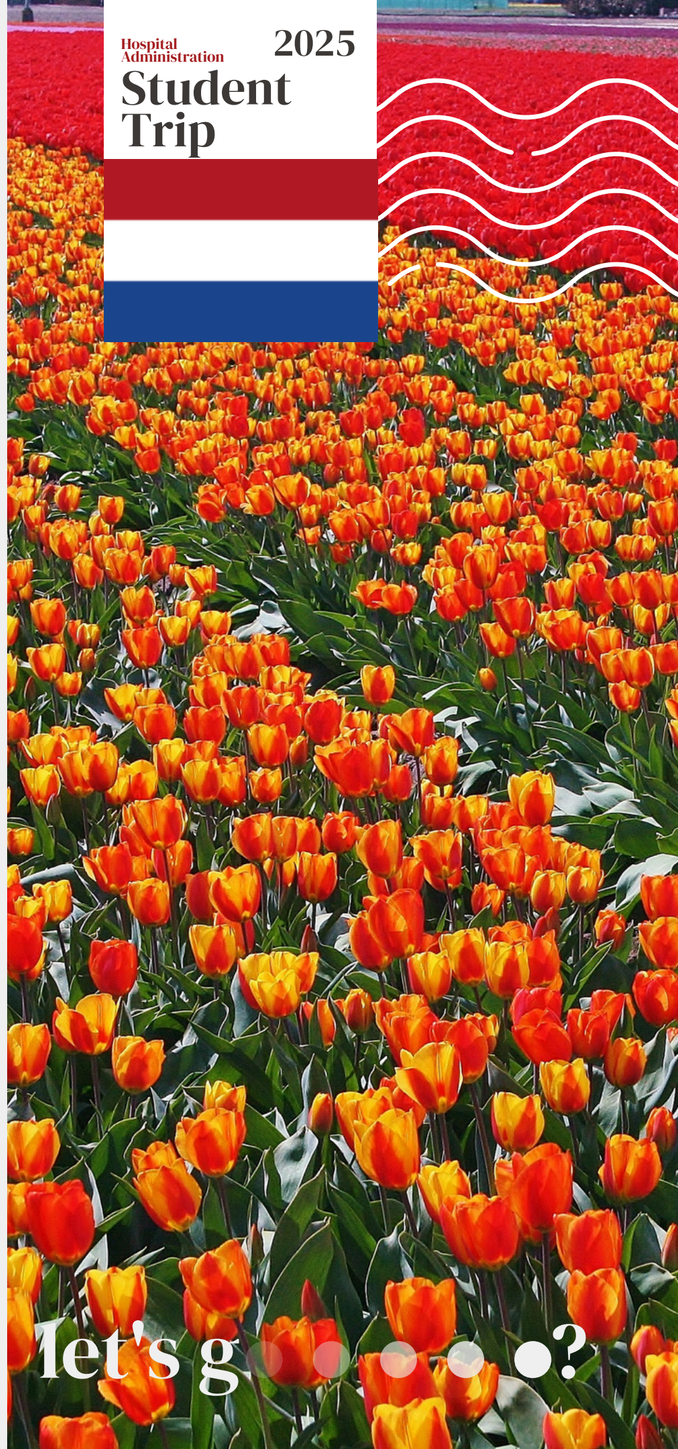

Our Goals

Learn about the dutch system for healthcare integration and financing model.

Focus on innovation, developing technologies, policies and patient safety.

Understand the model of governance and best practices in healthcare management and quality assurance

Establish relationships with professionals at other institutions, which may lead to future exchanges and collaborations
